

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to
air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of media consolidation
and the relaxation
of broadcasting
rules and ethics.

Sinclair uses the
public airwaves free
of charge, and is
obligated by law to serve the public interest. It should not be subject to the political preferences of an elite ownership
group.

Sinclair's actions
show why we need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not
weaken them.
